Remember those long-ago days of fatty Sunday roasts, junket, climbing mulberry trees, hula hoops, mini-skirts, surfing and rock 'n' roll? The advice your mother gave you to 'Wear clean knickers in case you're in a car accident.' Her threats of 'Wait until your father gets home' or her warning, 'No nice man will marry you if you eat with your mouth open.' When the Strathern family moved to the coastal Sydney suburb of Collaroy, the neighbours feared the family of five and their dog in underpants would lower the tone on Pittwater Road. Whether they did or not is for you to decide as Jonquil Graham takes you on a return journey to childhood and teenage years that included sea voyages, modelling assignments, making a movie, Contiki trips, doing the hippie trail across Asia and hitch-hiking around Europe. Join her in this fun flashback to memories that will make you sigh and laugh aloud as she recalls life in Australia in the 50s and 60s.

A wacky, lovable family

By Marvera Murphy

Growing up in Australia in the 1950's and 60's was not that different than growing up in the US back then. The author concentrates on her wacky family, with each member a fully developed character, rather than politics or cultural issues in Australia or New Zealand. She touches lightly on her modeling and movie making, but spends a good part of the book discussing her many travels, first with the family and later as an independent young woman. I look forward to reading her next book, detailing her life as a wife and adoptive mother.

Memories

By The Mate

This reminded me a lot of my own childhood, growing up in Australia. At that time things were a lot simpler when we survived with what we had. Any Australian growing up in the fifties will definitely enjoy this and should share it with their children.

A good account of the time and place.

By allan fenwick

5 stars because I grew up in the same area in the same time frame, so interesting and relevant to the times, well written.
